Looking for Something for Your Kids to do During Spring Break?

R.O.C.K. Camp by Rockwall Parks and Recreation offers the perfect solution.

ROCKWALL, TEXAS – March 1, 2016 – It's an annual dilemma—the kids are out of school for Spring Break, and you have to work. Are there activities for your young children that can keep them engaged and entertained during their week of vacation? The answer is a resounding, “YES!” R.O.C.K. Camp, or Rockwall Outdoor Classroom for Kids, is set to be another big one this year and spaces are filling up fast.

Designed for children ages 6-12, R.O.C.K. Camp, offered by the Rockwall Parks and Recreation Department, started 12 years ago, and in that time, it has grown exponentially. Young explorers embark on exciting adventures to locations in and around Dallas, including: Heard Natural Science Museum, Cowboys Stadium, and Dallas Arboretum and Children's Garden, just to name a few. Parents can rest assured that their children are well-cared for during these outings, as they are chaperoned by Parks and Recreation staff, and students are divided by age groups. Additionally, at a nominal cost of less than $150 for the whole week for Rockwall residents, R.O.C.K. Camp is a real bargain.

Space is limited for the week, there is only room for 55 kids, so be sure to visit PlayRockwall.com to reserve your spot today. Make sure to send your youngsters with a sack lunch, snack and water bottle each day, because this is an interactive camp, with a lot of physical activity. Be prepared... you and your child both may be surprised by the week's end that they don't even miss their cell phone!
